Dear Prof. Marinus H. van IJzendoorn

Let me first introduce myself. I am Prof. Adel Abduljabbar a faculty member of the Psychology department at King Saud University (KSU), Riyadh, Saudi Arabia.

The purpose of this email is to sought collaboration with your research group. My area of research is educational psychology. King Saud University has a program of collaboration with distinguished scientists to upgrade the standard of research of its staff and students and I am contacting you to enquire the possibility of collaboration with your group. For this purpose the University appoints you as a visiting professor, with a handsome honorarium (around seventy five thousand US dollar per annum). Additionally there will be small funding for a small joint research project. You are expected in return to visit the university twice a year . Give a couple of lectures during your stay and supervise the progress of any student in the project. The university also expects that this project should result in at least three publications in ISI journals. You will also be asked by the university to show your first affiliation to KSU on your <http://www.researcherid.com> as well as well as www.highlycited.com.

If you are happy to accept these conditions I will ask the university administration to contact you and send you official paperwork.

Looking forward to hear from you soon.

Best Regards,
